

Canadian and International Experts Weigh In: An Annotated List of AI-Related Resources for College and University Students with and Without Disabilities

by Rscapin on September 11, 2020 in Dawson, DawsonITE, Edtech

On May 1, 2020 the Adaptech Research Network held two Artificial Intelligence Advisory Board meetings via Zoom. Participants from Canada, Germany, Israel, the United Kingdom, and the USA shared AI-related apps and devices as well as projects and articles. The Adaptech team curated all of these and prepared an annotated list. The list is provided below under the headings “Apps and Devices” and “Projects and Other Resources.”

<https://adaptech.org/wp-content/uploads/AIurlsFromAIMeeting.docx>

Related Posts:

1. Using your OneDrive documents into your Moodle Course
2. How To Open Microsoft Word 2007 docx Files
3. Meet Zoom, the new videoconferencing platform at Dawson
4. An Annotated List of Flipped Class Tools and Resources
5. 5 Ways to Display YouTube in Class Without “Related” Content

About rscapin

View all posts by rscapin →

◀ A Handy Tool to Help You Create Educational Apps to Use in Your Instruction Video Puppet is Now Narakeet – Still Turns Slides Into Narrated Videos ▶

Comments are closed.

Search...

Q

Categories

Categories

Select Category

▼

Archives

Archives

Select Month

▼

Video of the Week

- Art in the age of machine intelligence
- How digital innovation can fight pandemics and strengthen democracy
- Forget multitasking, try monotasking

IT Partners

APOP

profweb
Learning Objects
and Inspiring Learning

IT Reps / Rep TIC

REPTIC

A Twitter list by @REPTIC

Martin R. Bérubé

@infomaitres

"Actualité pédagogique - 7 octobre 2020" getrevue.co/profile/mberub... (via @revue)

Yves Munn

Embed

View on Twitter

VTE

- 8 avenues of AI use that are worth exploring
- "App smashing": A Teaching Practice that Speaks to me as a Learner
- Integrating Online Curation and Social Annotation into Courses
- Decolonization and the Textbook in Western Civilizations: Exploring new Resources
- Is the Future of Free Textbooks Here Already?

Moodle News

